STEM Night is Tuesday

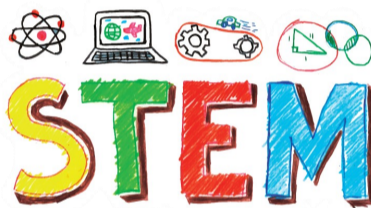

Mark your calendars! Tuesday, January 28th is our annual STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) program.

Once again we will have OMSI host a science fair during the day that your class will have the opportunity to visit. That night from 6:30-8:00pm we will have other fun exhibits and experiments that the whole family can enjoy!

We need volunteers in the evening to help us run the event. Click here to sign-up or email Bill Niemeyer at bniemeyer@uwalumni.com if you would like to help out.

Look out for a special guest at the event! We will be making an announcement when they arrive so no one misses out!

This event is always staff and student favorite and we look forward to seeing you there!

Battle of the Books Has Begun

Competitions for Battle of the Books started this week and will be held every Wednesday until Spring Break. Parents and Grandparents are welcome to come and watch. 4th graders will compete from 12:20-12:35 and 5th graders from 12:35-12:50 in the Media Center. Your child should have received a schedule this week. If they did not receive one, they can request one from Mrs. Iverson. Remind your child to memorize the author of every book on the list, even if they haven't read it.

They can also keep reading books and taking quizzes to become an All Star. To become an All Star they need to pass at least 12 Reading Counts quizzes on books they have read or listened to by March 27, 2020. All Stars will get to attend a pizza and ice cream sundae party in April.

Please contact Mrs. Iverson at heather.iverson@vansd.org with any questions.
